DIVE INTO A SUNLIT BATH

Introducing the Solaris crystal collection, which will literally light up the interior and look elegant and confident under all circumstances. The bottle and the drinking set which comprise the collection are cut to 12 facets mirroring the 24-carat gold applied to their convex bottom. The robust bottom thus serves as both a lens and a mirror that reflects its surroundings.

PETR LARVA

AUTHOR

Petr Larva is a designer, glass artist and the Art Director of Moser glassworks. He studied at the Academy of Arts, Architecture and Design in Prague in the glass studio of Vladimír Kopecký. He is the holder of a number of international awards. Larva sees glass as a medium that carries meaning, feeling and atmosphere. His works are a part of several museum collections and can even be found in presidential offices in Europe and the US.

A GOLD MIRROR UNDERNEATH

"The emanation of golden light is a concept that has been a part of my production for a long time," says the author of the design, Petr Larva. As the name indicates, the Solaris collection is inspired by the sun as the source of life-giving energy. Gazing into the crystal reveals a reflection of light in a "golden mirror". A reflection which feels like the touch of sunrays. Gold has been used for decorating crystal for centuries, yet the Solaris collection renders it in a very modern style.

A RADIANT ADORNMENT FOR YOUR BAR

The collection includes a bottle and glasses for whisky, long drinks and spirits. The thick-walled, twelve-sided tumblers end in a perfectly cut facet. The collection combines a clean, cylindrical shape of varying proportions and a robust convex bottom with a gold layer that reflects the light and movement of the surrounding world.
